

LEOTIS SANDERS is Chief of the Office of Civil Rights and Diversity Programs for New Jersey Transit (NJ TRANSIT), New Jersey's public transportation corporation. In this capacity, Leotis serves as both Chief Civil Rights Officer and Chief Diversity Officer, supervising four distinct business units: "The Office of Business Development" which administers NJ TRANSIT's Disadvantaged and Small Business Enterprise Programs; "Title VI and Environmental Justice Compliance", which ensures non-discrimination in the provision of NJ TRANSIT's vital programs and services; "ADA Compliance" which ensures corporate-wide compliance with ADA related laws and regulations; and "NJ TRANSIT's Diversity and Inclusion Initiative" which develops and implements programs, events and practices that support NJ TRANSIT's corporate value of "Inclusion", for customers, business partners, community partners and employees.

Prior to joining NJ TRANSIT in 2009, Leotis worked in the private sector as Director of Workforce Diversity at (former) Macy's East. As Director Leotis was responsible for developing and implementing diversity programs and policies for 30,000 employees around Macy's recruitment, employee development, community partnership, marketing and business strategy efforts. Leotis earned dual BA degrees in Philosophy and Religion from the University of Rochester in 1995. In 1996 he earned an MS in Education, in a program built on principles of democratic teaching around issues of race, class and gender, from University of Rochester's Margaret Warner School of Education. Leotis was born and raised in Brooklyn New York and currently resides in Hackensack, New Jersey.
